

President Trump's X-File/ Total Solar Eclipses in 2017 & 2024

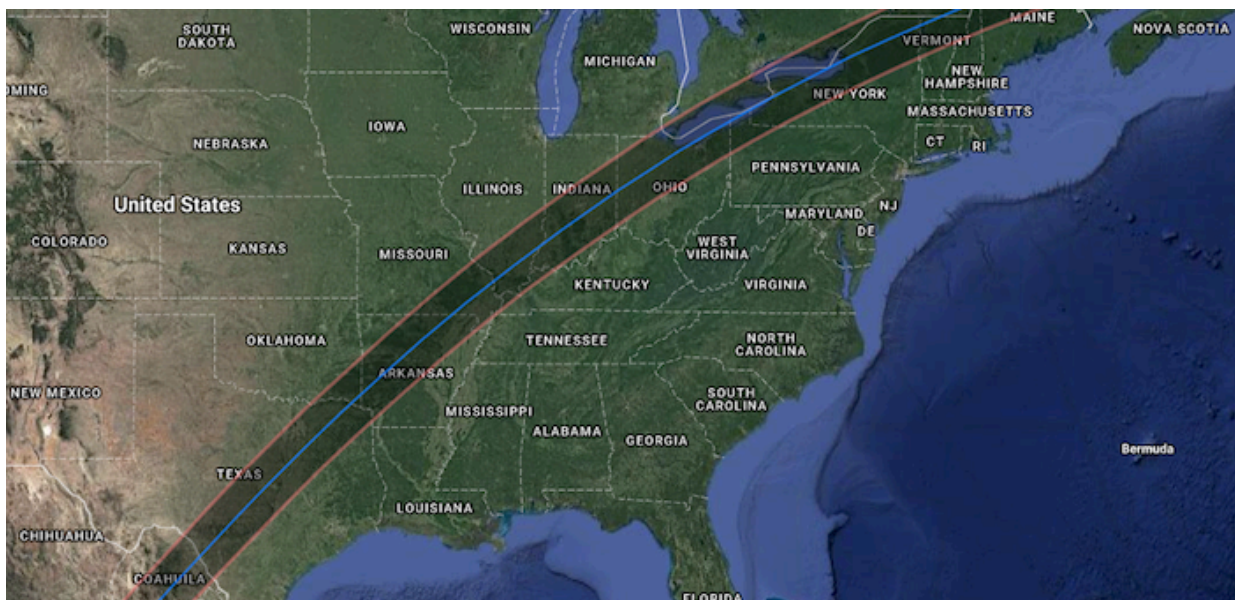

By J — This opinion is pure speculation blended with past thought reflections on actual eclipse experiences.

On August 21, 2017, a total solar eclipse occurs over the continental USA (going from NW to SE).

Notice the downward trend in the path, if one reads meaning into it, perhaps indicating the end of something — an era? The fall of an empire? The end of capitalism? Of individual liberty? Freedom?

On April 8, 2024, another total solar eclipse will occur over the continental USA.

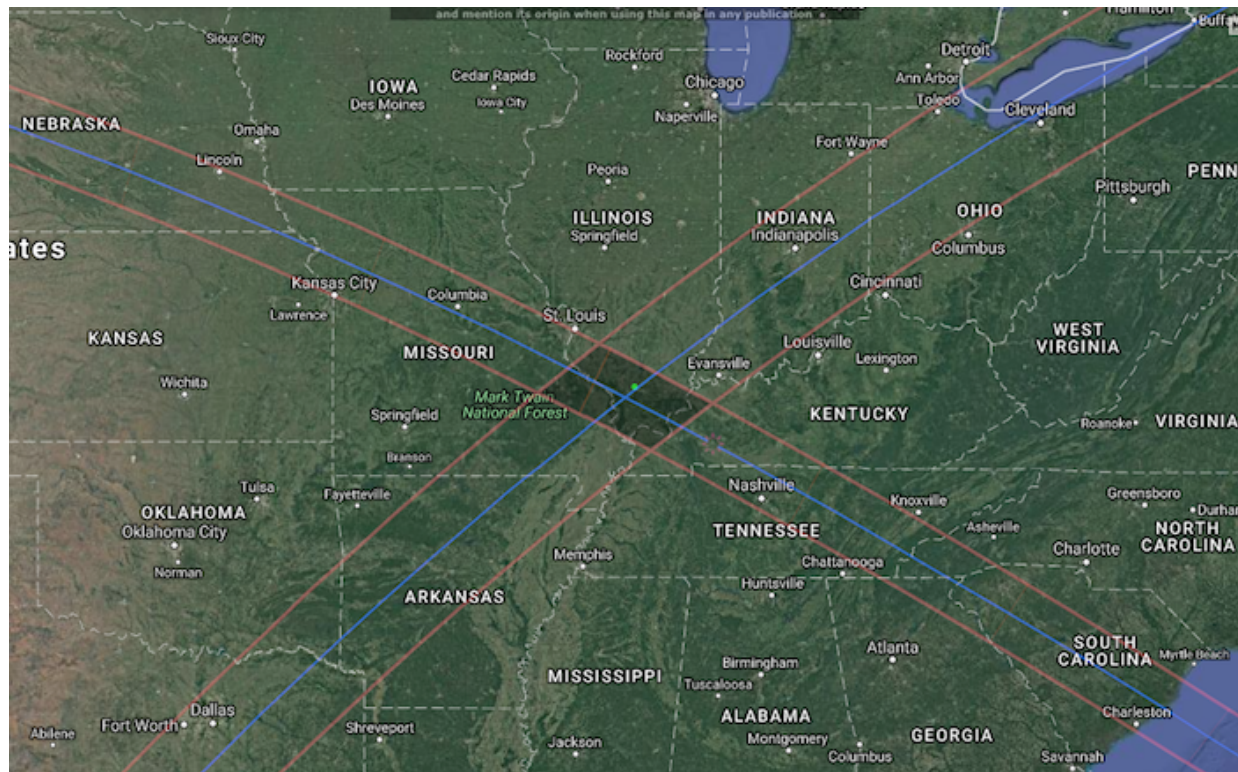

So far, nothing too spectacular right? An eclipse is a natural occurrence, predictable by science.

However, notice a difference in this one (2024)? The path is traveling a perpendicular (SW to NE) criss-crossing direction to the previous one (2017), like someone drawing a line to make a cross.

In a similar manner as a person, unable to write their own name, might sign a document as 'X'.

Someone else might cancel an item off a list, or an Artist cancel a drawing, by crossing it out.

Or perhaps, as God might, making the hand sign of the cross, to signify his blessing of a nation.

If one reads meaning into these two events, one might suggest, the first eclipse is ending an era, just as the second eclipse represents a beginning, and accelerated growth, of a whole new cycle.

Could this transition mark the period of the speculated ~7 year tribulation read from the Bible?

On November 8th, 2016, in Jewish year 5777, Donald Trump and Mike Pence defeated Hillary Clinton and Tim Kaine, going on to win the Electoral College by exactly 77 votes. The new President-Elect was born 700 days before Israel was reestablished on May 14th, 1948 and was 777 days old, 77 days after Israel's 1948 rebirth. — Gary *1

According to Doreen Virtue, in the personal language of Angel Numbers, noticing 777 signifies:

The angels applaud you, congratulations, you're on a roll! Keep up the good work and know your wish is coming true. This is an extremely positive sign and means you should also expect more miracles to occur. *2

So just for the sake of speculation, let us consider its potential significance in the practical world.

Almost 3 months after the 2017 eclipse, Donald J. Trump was elected to the office of President.

Tears crying a river, don't do justice to the upset his victory caused the emotionally handicapped.

He won, despite assurances and practical guarantees from nearly the entire media establishment and polling pundits, by literally 'trumping' his opponent — someone who had falsely calculated that by engineering his nomination as her opponent for the opposing political party, she would be practically 'guaranteed' to win, because 'he couldn't possibly win'. He was considered 'a joke'.

Here's an example from November 5, 2016:

A survey from the Princeton Election Consortium has found that Hillary Clinton has a 99 per cent chance of winning the election over Donald Trump.

Three days before the election, Ms Clinton has a projected 312 electoral votes, compared to 226 for Mr Trump. *3

So much for statistics...

"Lies, damned lies, and statistics" is a phrase describing the persuasive power of numbers, particularly the use of statistics to bolster weak arguments. It is also sometimes colloquially used to doubt statistics used to prove an opponent's point.

The term was popularised in United States by Mark Twain (among others), who attributed it to the British Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli: "There are three kinds of lies: lies, damned lies, and statistics." *4

In this context makes sense: That hers was a weak argument, bolstered by persuasive numbers.

It seemed, at least at the time, that the whole world wanted 'her' to win as first female President, and thus validate as reality, an illusory feminist triumph of women's conquering world power.

After all that spent (wasted?) time, effort, money, resources, and energy — how could they lose?

Yet hers was the political party that, at their election year convention, 'booed' at mentions of God.

Who would 'boo' God, other than rebels taking position against the spiritual reality of this world?

And throughout history, which groups are these? Groups pursuing an ideology (of man, not God).

Over the last forty years, America has been conquered by the same force that earlier took over Russia, China, Germany and Italy. That force is ideology. Here, as elsewhere, ideology has inflicted enormous damage on the traditional culture it came to dominate, fracturing it everywhere and sweeping much of it away. In its place came fear, and ruin. Russia will take a generation or more to recover from Communism, if it ever can.

The ideology that has taken over America goes most commonly by the name of "Political Correctness." Some people see it as a joke. It is not. It is deadly serious. It seeks to alter virtually all the rules, formal and informal, that govern relations among people and institutions. It wants to change behavior, thought, even the words we use. To a significant extent, it already has. Whoever or whatever controls language also controls thought. *5

Simply put — the Democratic party embraced the ideology of Political Correctness to win votes, but ended up spiritually corrupting themselves embracing the anger and hatred at its foundation, leading one to emotional grievances, self-victimhood, and identification with illusionary causes.

During Obama's 2008-2016 Presidency, it seemed Political Correctness 'took over everything', with social media the primary outlet through which victims projected accusations onto any target.

Rational discourse by self-responsible adults was being replaced by children's emotional fears, now amplified through platforms enabling anyone to reach an audience to claim a petty slight.

The insane were now running the asylum of projected collective consciousness at a national level, attempting to supplant any traditional notion of being American, in favor of rebellion against it.

By traditional, is hereby simply meant, a spiritual American who acknowledges his creator.

As General Carlos Romulo [4th United Nations General Assembly president] wrote:

Never forget Americans, that yours is a spiritual country. Yes, I know you're a practical people. Like others, I've marveled at your factories, your skyscrapers, and your arsenals. But underlying everything else is the fact that America began as a God-loving, God-fearing, God-worshipping people. *6

The USA doesn't seem a compatible nation to host another infection of Political Correctness.

The parallels between cultural Marxism and classical, economic Marxism are evident. Cultural Marxism, or Political Correctness, shares with classical Marxism the vision of a "classless society" i.e., a society not merely of equal opportunity, but equal condition. Since that vision contradicts human nature — because people are different, they end up unequal, regardless of the starting point — society will not accord with it unless forced. So, under both variants of Marxism, it is forced. This is the first major parallel between classical and cultural Marxism: both are totalitarian ideologies. The totalitarian nature of Political Correctness can be seen on campuses where "PC" has taken over the college: freedom of speech, of the press, and even of thought are all eliminated. *5

And so, God had a surprise in waiting, which depended on His believers praying and believing, as large crowds did, in both Israel and USA, on the night of his election — praying for a redeemer.

Praying for the tide to turn, from despair at the end of their nations's foundations spiritual ideals, favoring progressivism and a destructive philosophy of power responsible for millions of deaths...

By an ideology's apparent intent, outweighing in denial the overt consequences of its brutal truth.

In total, Marxist regimes murdered nearly 110 million people from 1917 to 1987. *7

A form of denial only made possible, when fear is expressed through negative projected emotions, from which power is accumulated to be used as a weapon against a 'weakening' spiritual nature.

Power which manifests under the control of any tyrant, becoming masters of that nation's time:

The Khmer Rouge – (Cambodian communists) who ruled Cambodia for four years – provide insight into why Marxists believed it necessary and moral to massacre so many of their fellow humans. Their Marxism was married to absolute power. They believed without a shred of doubt that they knew the truth, that they would bring about the greatest human welfare and happiness, and that to realize this utopia, they had to mercilessly tear down the old feudal or capitalist order and Buddhist culture, and then totally rebuild a communist society. Nothing could be allowed to stand in the way of this achievement. Government – the Communist Party – was above any law. All other institutions, religions, cultural norms, traditions and sentiments were expendable.

The Marxists saw the construction of this utopia as a war on poverty, exploitation, imperialism and inequality – and, as in a real war, noncombatants would unfortunately get caught in the battle. There would be necessary enemy casualties: the clergy, bourgeoisie, capitalists, “wreckers,” intellectuals, counterrevolutionaries, rightists, tyrants, the rich and landlords. As in a war, millions might die, but these deaths would be justified by the end, as in the defeat of Hitler in World War II. To the ruling Marxists, the goal of a communist utopia was enough to justify all the deaths.

The irony is that in practice, even after decades of total control, Marxism did not improve the lot of the average person, but usually made living conditions worse than before the revolution. It is not by chance that the world's greatest famines have happened within the Soviet Union (about 5 million dead from 1921-23 and 7 million from 1932-3, including 2 million outside Ukraine) and communist China (about 30 million dead from 1959-61). Overall, in the last century almost 55 million people died in various Marxist famines and associated epidemics – a little over 10 million of them were intentionally starved to death, and the rest died as an unintended result of Marxist collectivization and agricultural policies. *7

God signed his name, an “X”, the symbol reflecting this universe’s governing law of time & space.

More of time, means less for space. More of space, means less for time. We live unbalanced lives.

The only place an individual may find balance, is within himself, living in balance with the world... This only he/she can do alone, by discovering this truth for their Self, nurturing it throughout life.

Only he may choose how and when he works, to receive the benefits of the fruits of his labors. And if so, to work as hard as chosen, trading surplus against benefits, without making him/her slave.

Time has been this century’s great keeper, the pulse of modernization, by which fear is regulated. “There’s never enough time,” “time’s running out,” “work harder to meet this deadline, ‘or die’.”

All symptoms of fears (anti-Christ): Fear of death/loss. The nature of compressing time for gain.

On the surface at least, traits characterized, blown out of proportion, and exasperated by Trump.

A man, one might imagine from this century’s P.C. feminist view, being the root cause of all evil.

So is Trump just what he appears, or is truth hiding in plain sight, that he is who he needs to be?

This specific time period is demarcated by two total solar eclipses forming an 'X' right over the chief Gentile and Evangelical nation on earth - the United States. The point on the map where the two eclipses intersect is a region of Illinois known as "Little Egypt" and often just "Egypt". The world may very well be undergoing a replay of the events of Exodus: an end times pharaoh takes the reigns (the antichrist), as God's judgments are poured out on the earth (the Tribulation), and His people leave (Believers leaving for Heaven and Jews leaving for the wilderness). — Gary *8

Perhaps, in matters of timeline, it would be more accurate to identify the “end times pharaoh” as one former President Barack Hussein Obama, for he and his ‘wife’ exhibit a certain such quality:

That's Obama compared with a bust of Pharaoh Akhenaten and Michelle Obama with Queen Tiye.

That's quite the similarity. But is it just an optical illusion or symbol of something more truthful? If true, could mean, the anti-Christ is come and gone, and your judgment is who you've become.

Saved? Then the kingdom is found for souls who've redeemed themselves in the eyes of the Lord.

Leaving for heaven, may simply mean, rediscovering God's truth by finding him within your Self, in turning away from desires and pleasures of the world, and purifying one's Self from past sins.

This perspective would certainly reflect this author's healing experiences approaching time of 'X'.

A pivot upon which an era, the externalized worldly life, ends, and internal, spiritual life begins...

Donald J. Trump, reflecting his supporters' (a 'silent majority') desires for a return to God's truth, and ending the dominance of demoralizing policies being imposed upon the nation, succeeded in making the impossible occur — being elected to President against all odds favoring his opponent.

An opponent representing the establishment order, bought for and favored to promote an illusion. But speaking with the forked tongue of a snake, truth and falsehood simultaneously, unfit to rule.

The following comment was posted by jenny2 on a YouTube video after the election [italics mine]:

Hillary (from Hilarius, Latin or Greek)= Cheerful

Diane (from Dyeus, Indo-European) = Heavenly, Divine

Rodham (from Rod, Old English) = Clearing (motto = Another succeeds)

Clinton = (from Glympton, Old English) = Fenced Settlement (no motto)

Hillary's full name in one sentence literally means:

Be cheerful of a divine clearing, as another will succeed the establishment.

Donald (from Domhnall, Gaelic) = "world ruler"

John (from Yochanan, Hebrew) = "YAHWEH is gracious"

Trump (from Trumpf, a Swiss-German dialect variant of German word Drumpf) = The suit in playing cards that captures the rest, as in Triumphs over.

Trump's full name in one sentence literally means:

*A world ruler, of God's graciousness, will triumph over all and capture the rest. 9

Kind of makes you wonder... Doesn't it?

The man for his time — a product of a corrupt system he is tasked with by God to renew with life?

A total solar eclipse tends to 'trigger' events, and especially changes in someone's personal life.

Two total solar eclipses, occurring only ~7 years apart across the same territory, is very unlikely. With such implications for the future being unknown in advance, however, the potential toward profound spiritual change increases exponentially when such supporting cosmic events occur.

Even during the election primaries during 2016-2017 the Democrats 'losing' seemed impossible, and yet, Hillary's name suggesting 'a divine clearing' brings to mind the story of the pied-piper, who uses magic to lure the rats away from the town, but then lures the children instead when the citizens refuse to pay for his service. Following her 'shocking' election loss, she changed her tune.

Now putting fear into the nation's citizens' children, by blaming her election loss on 'Russians', in retaliation for not having been given a 'crown', when she'd dreamed of becoming a Queen herself.

Of ruling like any man had with the same thirst for power the last century, by ideological tyranny.

Thus, it's not inconceivable, if one were to read meaning into these coinciding events, that Trump won the election, to usher in a new era, by turning this nation's fortunes around, from downward sliding into spiritual oblivion, to rising like a mythical Phoenix from the ashes a renewed nation. 'Spiritually purified', and returned to the spiritual roots of its founding, as its fathers intended it.

Other schools (such as gnostic, black moon astrology) reflect this view, that humanity is healing a shadow — in consequence of man's fall at the hands of the Archons, that manipulate for control. What could generally be identified as being deceivers, demons, evil spirits, djinn, shadows, etc.

History will prove whether this time of tribulation proves Donald John Trump was chosen by God, by whether he fulfills his purpose, his mission on Earth, to become the greatest President in time.

And for this author, X marks the pivot and tipping point, of a time by when God saved him. Amen.
