A Breathing Earth

Having spent much of my life living near the center of that mitten-shaped peninsula in North America, I have had a consistent seasonal metronome through which I track the years of my life. When I stitch together what can be an impersonal snapshot of an entire planet, all of the sudden I see a thing with a heartbeat. I can track one location throughout a year to compare the annual push and pull of snow and plant life there, while in my periphery I see the oscillating wave of life advancing and retreating, advancing and retreating. And I'm reassured by it...

But, overall, to me it looks like breathing. *3

Theory

Thus, while the test of agreement with experience is accepted in principle as something that would apply under ideal conditions, it has in practice fallen into disuse and scientists are at present psychologically unprepared to deal with an innovation which claims full agreement with observation. When a new theory appears, the possibility of applying the standard criterion directly to determine the validity of the theory is seldom considered, and the question "Is this theory true?" is seldom asked. Instead, the point at issue is regarded as a contest between the new theory and the currently accepted ideas which that theory seeks to supplant, and the question to be answered is considered to be "Which of these theories is the better?" *4

American scientists spent two weeks flying around the world in jets equipped with atomic clocks. Their object was to confirm a prediction of Einstein's special theory of relativity that time on a moving object slows down the faster the object moves. They did. And it does.

This time dilation effect is now an accepted scientific fact. Astronauts flying at close to the speed of light would age more slowly than their friends on earth. The reason is that the space traveller's heartbeat, the decay of the cells of his body and his other physiological processes would slow down.

Scientists can calculate accurately the extent to which time would slow down on a spaceship travelling at close to the speed of light. Time would appear to pass normally, yet in just a few years the travellers would reach the most distant stars.

After twenty-one years on the spaceship, they could be in the heart of the Milky Way—while on earth 75,000 light years had passed!

But notice. The theory of relativity (of space and time) was apparently known to our early forefathers.

Lucretius, Heraclitus and Zeno each postulated aspects of this principle. It was also known in India.

A Japanese love story incorporates the fact of time dilation in space travel. The Island Child went into the skies for 3 years, but found on his return to his earthly home that 300 years had passed there.

The Slavic version of the Book of Enoch (reflecting very ancient origins) narrates the story of a space trip which for the hero lasted only a few days, while on earth whole centuries passed.

The Vision of Isiah (second to third century A.D.) speaks of a space trip to heaven. When told it was time to return to earth, the traveller asked in surprise. "Why so soon? I have been here only two hours." The angel replied. "Not two hours but 32 years." Isiah now feared he would suffer old age and death if he returned, but he was assured that upon his return to earth he would not have aged.

These ancient people were not hallucinating. If our astronauts could travel close to the speed of light, they would experience a comparable shrinkage of time. This we now accept as scientifically valid.

Modern science is today stumbling upon discoveries known to an ancient forgotten science.<sup>*6</sup>

It was a defining moment in what has become perhaps the best-known psychology study of all time. Whether you learned about Philip Zimbardo's famous "Stanford Prison Experiment" in an introductory psych class or just absorbed it from the cultural ether, you've probably heard the basic story.

Zimbardo, a young Stanford psychology professor, built a mock jail in the basement of Jordan Hall and stocked it with nine "prisoners," and nine "guards," all male, college-age respondents to a newspaper ad who were assigned their roles at random and paid a generous daily wage to participate. The senior prison "staff" consisted of Zimbardo himself and a handful of his students.

The study was supposed to last for two weeks, but after Zimbardo's girlfriend stopped by six days in and witnessed the conditions in the "Stanford County Jail," she convinced him to shut it down. Since then, the tale of guards run amok and terrified prisoners breaking down one by one has become world-famous, a cultural touchstone that's been the subject of books, documentaries, and feature films—even an episode of Veronica Mars.

The SPE is often used to teach the lesson that our behavior is profoundly affected by the social roles and situations in which we find ourselves. But its deeper, more disturbing implication is that we all have a wellspring of potential sadism lurking within us, waiting to be tapped by circumstance. It has been invoked to explain the massacre at My Lai during the Vietnam War, the Armenian genocide, and the horrors of the Holocaust. And the ultimate symbol of the agony that man helplessly inflicts on his brother is Korpi's famous breakdown, set off after only 36 hours by the cruelty of his peers.

There's just one problem: Korpi's breakdown was a sham.<sup>*10</sup>

Hope

Finally – a man we can truly believe in makes it to the presidency! It's been eight long years of misery and hell under the worst president in history.

Barack Obama led a culture of false accusation, excuse making, weakness and exploitation. In Donald Trump, we have a real man in office—a restoration of masculinity, decency and leadership.

Thank you to all of the whites, blacks, Hispanics, Asians and others, men and women, young and old, across the political spectrum who helped elect Donald Trump.

Trump supporters united around what's right, to save our country from enemies foreign and domestic, so we can hash out our differences in peace, not anger.

Let the leftist forces of evil cry and scream. They love evil and hate good. They seek to divide and conquer.

Let the false illusion of "racism" and "sexism" no longer hold sway over the minds of the people. As long as he is not intimidated, Trump will be a unifying force like we have not seen in our lifetimes—simply by being himself.

Let real authority step in to stop George Soros' communist riots around the country. Our wicked president, Barack Obama, loves this culture of violence, chaos and crisis—and Hillary Clinton sought to perpetuate it.

Let's reject Soros' hate movement, Black Lives Matter. May all who support evil "BLM" wake up and repent or be put to shame. Let's end the slander, attacks and murders committed against police officers.

Let authorities deal with the threats on the life of President-elect Donald Trump, and the violence against his supporters.

May fair-minded people find courage. Let them protect their children's lives and souls, and set an example for them as Trump does. Let young people no longer be turned away from their parents, misled by liberal academics and social-media mobs.

Let's restore law and order, peace and safety.

Let's protect our citizens from Muslims who want to kill us, not pander to those more offended by "Islamophobia" than terrorism.

Let's send the illegals home and build a big, beautiful wall along the border. Let's stop the drugs, crime and rape that MS-13 and Mexican drug cartels bring us.

Let's bring back trades, work and opportunity. End oppressive taxes. Bring back a strong economy.

Let the children of evil have the pain now—liberals, RINOs and lying media. It's their turn for suffering; it's our turn for restoration.

May good men no longer suffer politicized attacks for doing right. End the suspicion and threats against innocent men such as former officer Darren Wilson and others the left maligned. Let us honor true men of authority like Sheriff Joe Arpaio, Judge Roy Moore and Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas.

Let the Clintons, the Obamas, George Soros, Southern Poverty Law Center, the ACLU and the liberal media billionaires be the enemies of Americans, not the Koch brothers whom Harry Reid likes to scapegoat.

Let anger and blindness subside. Bring back forgiveness and truth.

Let's rebuild men. Put families back together. Reject intimidation from feminists and radical homosexuals. Let's think like men again.*<sup>12</sup>

Homosexual Manifesto

This essay was printed in the February 15, 1987 issue of the homosexual newspaper Gay Community News by Michael Swift, and was reprinted in the February 15-21 1987 Congressional Record.

We shall sodomize your sons, emblems of your feeble masculinity, of you shallow dreams and vulgar lies. We shall seduce them in your schools, in your dormitories, in your gymnasiums, in your locker rooms, in your sports arenas, in your seminaries, in your youth groups, in your movie theater bathrooms, in your army bunkhouses, in your truck stops, in your all-male clubs, in your houses of Congress, wherever men are with men together. Your sons shall become our minions and do our bidding.

They will be recast in our image. They will come to crave and adore us. Women, you cry for freedom. You say you are no longer satisfied with men; they make you unhappy. We, connoisseurs of the masculine face, the masculine physique, shall take your men from you then. We will amuse them; we will instruct them; we will embrace them when they weep.

Women, you say you wish to live with each other instead of with men. Then go and be with each other. We shall give your men pleasures they have never known because we are foremost men too and only man knows how to truly please another man; only one man can understand with depth and feeling the mind and body of another man.

All laws banning homosexual activity will be revoked. Instead, legislation shall be passed which engenders love between men.

All homosexuals must stand together as brothers; we must be united artistically, philosophically, socially, politically, and financially. We will triumph only when we present a common face to the vicious heterosexual enemy. If you dare to cry faggot, fairy, queer, at us, we will stab you in your cowardly hearts and defile your dead, puny bodies.

We shall write poems of the love between men; we shall stage plays in which man openly caresses man; we shall make films about the love between heroic men which will replace the cheap, superficial, sentimental, insipid, juvenile, heterosexual infatuations presently dominating your cinema screens.

We shall sculpt statues of beautiful young men, of bold athletes which will be placed in your parks, your squares, your plazas. The museums of the world will be filled only with paintings of graceful, naked lads.

Our writers and artists will make love between men fashionable and de rigueur, and we will succeed because we are adept at setting styles. We will eliminate heterosexual liaisons through the devices of wit and ridicule, devices which we are skilled in employing.

We will unmask the powerful homosexuals who masquerade as heterosexuals. You will be shocked and frightened when you find that your presidents and their sons, your industrialists, your senators, your mayors, your generals, your athletes, your film stars, your television personalities, your civic leaders, your priests are not the safe, familiar, bourgeois, heterosexual figures you assumed them to be. We are everywhere; we have infiltrated your ranks. Be careful when you speak of homosexuals because we are always among you; we may be sleeping in the same bed with you.

Be careful when you speak of homosexuals because we are always among you; we may be sleeping in the same bed with you.

There will be no compromises. We are not middle-class weaklings. Highly intelligent, we are the natural aristocrats of the human race, and steely-minded aristocrats never settle for less. Those who oppose us will be exiled. We shall raise vast, private armies, as Mishima did, to defeat you.

We shall conquer the world because warriors inspired by and banded together by homosexual love and honor are as invincible as were the ancient Greek soldiers. The family unit spawning ground of lies, betrayals, mediocrity, hypocrisy, and violence will be abolished. The family unit, which only dampens imagination and curbs free will, must be eliminated. Perfect boys will be conceived and grown in the genetic laboratory. They will be bonded together in a communal setting, under the control and instruction of homosexual savants.

All churches who condemn us will be closed. Our only gods are handsome young men. We adhere to a cult of beauty, moral and aesthetic. All that is ugly and vulgar and banal will be annihilated. Since we are alienated from middle-class heterosexual conventions, we are free to live our lives according to the dictates of the pure imagination. For us too much is not enough.

The exquisite society to emerge will be governed by an elite comprised of gay poets. One of the major requirements for a position of power in the new society of homoeroticism will be indulgence in the Greek passion. Any man contaminated with heterosexual lust will be automatically barred from a position of influence. All males who insist on remaining stupidly heterosexual will be tried in homosexual courts of justice and will become invisible men. We shall rewrite history, history filled and debased with your heterosexual lies and distortions.

We shall portray the homosexuality of the great leaders and thinkers who have shaped the world. We will demonstrate that homosexuality and intelligence and imagination are inextricably linked, and that homosexuality is a requirement for true nobility, true beauty in a man.

We shall be victorious because we are fueled with the ferocious bitterness of the oppressed who have been forced to play seemingly bit parts in your dumb, heterosexual shows throughout the ages. We too are capable of firing guns and manning the barricades of the ultimate revolution. Tremble, hetero swine, when we appear before you without our masks! <sup>*13</sup>

Transmission

The “Map of Consciousness” developed by modern mystic and clinical scientist David R. Hawkins breaks new ground in explaining the transmission effect and inspirational power so often noted of saints, sages, and mystics.

Based on an application of “attractor fields” from nonlinear dynamics and chaos theory, the “Map of Consciousness” posits that the higher “energy fields” or “attractor fields” of Love, Peace, and Self-Realization radiate an uplifting effect on the world at the energetic level. Experiential knowledge is sometimes seen as suspect in academia and certain religious dogmas. However, experiential knowledge tends to be more authoritative than book learning in real life. For example, when hiking an unfamiliar trail, I would rather learn about the conditions of the trail from the hiker who has come down from the top of the mountain than from the one reading a guidebook at the start of the trailhead. <sup>*14</sup>

Prophet

Your imagination is the single most important asset you possess. It's your power to create mental pictures of things that don't exist yet and that you want to bring into being. It's the magic wand you use to shape your future.

And so in your own way, you are a prophet. You generate countless predictions every day. Your imagination is the source, tirelessly churning out images of what you will be doing later.

The featured prophecy of the moment may be as simple as a psychic impression of yourself eating a fudge brownie at lunch or as monumental as a daydream of some year building your dream home by a lake or sea...

But for most of us, the imagination is as much a curse as a blessing. We're often just as likely to use it to conjure up premonitions that are at odds with our conscious values. That's the result of having absorbed toxic programming from the media and from our parents at an early age and from other influential people in our past.

Fearful fantasies regularly pop up into our awareness, many disguising themselves as rational thoughts and genuine intuitions. Those fearful fantasies may hijack our psychic energy, directing it to exhaust itself in dead-end meditations.

Every time we entertain a vision of being rejected or hurt or frustrated, every time we rouse and dwell on a memory of a painful experience, we're blasting ourselves with a hex.

Meanwhile, ill-suited longings are also lurking in our unconscious mind, impelling us to want things that aren't good for us and that we don't really need. Anytime we surrender to the allure of these false and trivial and counterproductive desires, our imagination is practicing a form of black magic.

This is the unsavory aspect of the imagination that the Zen Buddhists deride as the "monkey mind." It's the part of our mental apparatus that endlessly spins out pictures that zip around with the energy of an agitated animal. If we can stop locating our sense of self in the relentless surge of the monkey mind's slapdash chatter, we can be fully attuned to the life that's right in front of us. Only then are we able to want what we actually have.

But whether our imagination is in service to our noble desires or in the thrall of compulsive fears and inappropriate yearnings, there is one constant: The prophecies of our imagination tend to be accurate. Many of our visions of the future do come to pass. The situations we expect to occur and the experiences we rehearse and dwell on are all-too-often reflected back to us as events that confirm our expectations.

Does that mean our mental projections create the future? Let's consider that possibility. What if it's at least partially true that what we expect will happen does tend to materialize?

Here's the logical conclusion: It's downright stupid and self-destructive to keep infecting our imaginations with pictures of loss and failure, doom and gloom, fear and loathing. The far more sensible approach is to expect blessings.

That's one reason why I'm reverent in composing my messages for you. If I'm to be one of the influences you invite into the intimate sanctuary where you hatch your self-fulfilling prophecies, I want to conspire with you to disperse fear and invoke relaxation and joy.<sup>*16</sup>

Nature

Children have limited respect for their immediate natural surroundings. Louv says the effects of nature deficit disorder on our children will be an even bigger problem in the future. "An increasing pace in the last three decades, approximately, of a rapid disengagement between children and direct experiences in nature... has profound implications, not only for the health of future generations but for the health of the Earth itself".

The effects from nature deficit disorder could lead to the first generation being at risk of having a shorter lifespan than their parents. *<sup>17</sup>

The New Creed of New Thinking

I believe that the basic cause of motion is extremely simple, and easy to understand. I believe that the effects of motion are infinitely complex and extremely difficult to comprehend. I believe that anyone who thoroughly understands cause can also understand the complex effects of cause. I believe that the whole of this universe of so-called matter is being put together into relative solids and torn apart into liquids and gases by One Force divided in its pulsations so that it appears to be two opposing forces. These apparently two forces move in opposite directions against a resistance set up by each against the other, thus creating a minus equilibrium and a plus equilibrium which we know of as solids and as space surrounding solids. I believe that solids are assembled out of space by one oscillation of the force which pulls inward from within, and that space consumes the solids by the other oscillation which pushes outward from within.

I believe that the reciprocation of these two opposing and repetitive effects constitutes a cycle of appearance and disappearance which we call "Creation." I believe that each of these forces resists the action of the other and in so doing gives to the two opposing sex forces the repetitive effect which makes this universe of motion a continuous cycle. I believe that the combined triad effect of the two opposing oscillations and resistance is registered in waves of varying dimensions which are the basis of all motion. I believe that the opposed workings of the two forces creates a polarized or unstable condition and that thing which we call energy is the effort exerted by each force to re-attain the stability of equilibrium through depolarization. I believe, therefore, that all motion is the result of setting up an endless series of high and low pressure conditions which are ever interchanging in their constant and useless attempts to equalize. This can never be accomplished so long as the One Force is a living, pulsing force.

It is very evident that the so-called solids of matter are condensed, or contracted, from larger volume into small volume by a force which pulls inward from within. This force is exerted against a resistant force which pushes outward from within. That force which we call the attraction of gravitation corresponds to this force for it gathers large volume of little weight into small volume of great weight.

Electricity corresponds in every respect to this condensing force, for it tends to shorten a line in the direction of its length. Electricity also accumulates low potential into high potential by generating high amperage of low voltage pressure into low amperage of high voltage pressure. This step-up transformation process in electrical practice exactly corresponds to the accumulation of energy in solids by generation. The generation of energy from large area into small area is a condensing, contracting, compressing effect which exactly corresponds to all electrical and all gravitational effects. Planets, suns and solar systems, electrons, protons and atomic systems are the familiar results of this force which gathers energy into smaller volumes of dense masses.

Can we not reasonably and logically conclude that energy so compressed into closer integration is a plus of energy as compared with its environment from which it was condensed? If it is a plus force and if it was generated gravitatively by electric contraction, can we not reasonably classify it as a charging force? And can we not just as logically complete the analogy and identify this generating, electro-gravitational force which develops an ever-increasing pressure gradient in the direction of a common center, as an electro-positive force?

If the above conclusions from familiar, observed effects are logical, are we not now in a position to state that the one and only possible direction for any of these electro-gravitational effects is the direction of mutual attraction, which is toward a common center?

... We have considered the assembling force which steps up energy from the invisible universe by Nature's spirally-wound transformer which contracts its windings on a centripetal journey to high pressure centers, so we can see and feel it as a visible universe of solids.

Let us consider the reverse process by means of which Nature's step down transformer releases that accumulated energy through the spiral windings which ever expand on the outward centrifugal journey from visibility and density to invisibility and tenuity. It is evident that visible or condensed solids of matter disappear into invisible vapors, gases or ethers by a repellent or expansive force which pushes outward from within against a resistant force which pulls inward from within. That repellent force which we call radiation corresponds to this force, for it disintegrates solid, integrated matter which has been compressed into small volume, into large volume. The magnetic field of a generated force exactly corresponds in every respect to this expanding, tearing down attempt of Nature to disassemble her assembled solids.

What is a magnetic field? Is it not plain to see that it is the degeneration of a generated force which ever weakens as its distance from its source increases? If the electric oscillation of an electro-magnetic wave is the generative oscillation which increases in force toward its core, does it not follow that the magnetic oscillation must necessarily be the degenerative oscillation which repels? If this is so, then is it proper to name the field which surrounds a generating current, a magnetic field? Is it not as properly an electro-magnetic field as a wave is an electro-magnetic wave because it exerts force in two directions? And is not the electric oscillation of that field the one which pumps force with ever increasing acceleration toward the plus of high pressure and, conversely, is not the magnetic oscillation the one which pumps force with ever increasing deceleration in the opposite direction toward the minus of low pressure? And does not the ratio of deceleration and acceleration of these opposite effects exactly correspond to the acceleration and deceleration ratios of all gravitational and radiational effects?

Magnetism, then, instead of being the attractive force which its name implies, is that decelerative, repellent force which tends not only to lengthen a line in the direction of its length, but to expand and retard that line in every outward direction. If this is so, it necessarily follows that it is the opposite of the inductive force which hastens this time dimension of force by covering equal distances in less time. Magnetism dissipates high potential into low potential by degenerating high voltage pressure of low amperage into low voltage pressure of high amperage. This step down transformation process in electric practice exactly corresponds to the release of energy in mass by radiation. This degeneration of energy from small area into large area is a rarifying, evaporating, dissolving, expanding effect which exactly corresponds to all magnetic and all radiational effects.

Invisibility, vapors, gases, and the pressure gradient of space are the familiar results of this repellent force which always occupies the outside insulating position of non-solidity which surrounds solid masses as a protective environment of ever-lowering conductivity. Can we not reasonably and logically conclude that energy so rarified by the expansion of radiation is a minus force as compared with the condensed mass which it surrounds? And can we not just as logically complete the analogy and identify this degenerating magneto-radiational discharging force which evidences an ever weakening pressure gradient as an electro-negative (or, more properly, a magneto-negative) force? ...

It is an experimentally proved and admitted fact that any electric current exerts itself in two directions. It is admitted that an electric current does not flow until polarization begins or that polarization begins when an electric current begins, and also that the strength of the current increases simultaneously with an increase in the "charge" or "moment" or "strength" of the poles. It is also equally admitted that any potential either greater or less than the potential which it displaces seeks opposite directions. It is known that one of these directions results in charging both potentials and the other direction discharges both. In the face of this evidence in observed effects, it is reasonable to state that there is a generoactive, positive force which acts simultaneously with the recognized negative, radioactive force. If the positive force is a charging force and the negative force a discharging force, is it proper to refer to negative charge in a mass when there can be no such thing as "negative charge?" We must properly define this force as "negative discharge."

This brings us to an effect which is one of the most obvious of Nature's effects but which is stoutly denied by the modern physicist, that every mass in Nature is doubly charged. We know that all organic life is both male and female, each individual or cell being just preponderantly male or female. We know that all generating bodies or currents are simultaneously radiating. We know that all heating bodies are cooling through radiation, and that all cooling bodies are heating through contraction. We see everywhere in Nature, especially on our planet, the generative effect of charging, and the simultaneous degenerating effect of discharging, yet the modern physicist insists, although he finds no precedent in nature, that an entire body is either negatively or positively "charged." He defines a negatively "charged" body as one which has added some electrons, and a positively "charged" body as one which has lost some electrons.

Nature's electrical practice is obviously different from this supposed state of facts. The theory is, probably, inherited with the old theory that the universe is running down gradually and not winding itself up simultaneously to balance its degeneration. Does it not seem more rational to suppose that the formation of every mass in nature is the result of a pressure gradient developed by the solenoid principle which first steps energy up to ever-increasing pressure; and that the destruction of that mass is caused by a preponderance of the discharging force which then steps it down to an equilibrium?

The sun is contracting. That means that it is not mature, not having yet reached the equilibrium limit of its wave impulse. We know this to be true for it has not yet become a sphere, nor has its magnetic pole coincided with its pole of rotation, as it will when this solar system has reached the amplitude position of its wave. It is still winding more tightly the spiral turns of its step up transformer principle, which increases the number of its turns and so narrows up the spaces between them exactly as a clock spring would tighten as it winds up. This is the generoactive principle of nature which we recognize in our mechanical equivalent as a solenoid.

We know that an electric current centripetally passed through a spirally coiled wire to a central point, transforms a given quantum of potential energy which is distributed over a large area under low pressure, into a spiral pressure gradient culminating in exceedingly high pressure at its core. We know also that a flux of lines of force radiate in an outward direction from a common center. We know also that the voltage pressure of the "field" of pressure which surrounds the solenoid, gradually lowers until it reaches an equilibrium, then reverses its direction and returns to the opposite pole from which it was ejected. We know also that if another solenoid coil or a hundred of them were placed near by, the radiated energy from each would interchange with more or less difficulty according to the conductivity of the insulating medium with which every solid surrounds itself. Pressure or density of this atmospheric insulator determines its conductivity and inductivity, which are two directions of the same thing. Proximity determines the strength of the fields between solids, and density determines proximity.

Let us then consider the sun as a huge solenoid which steps up its energy to high pressure toward its core and steps it down to low pressure out in space. In the first instance, the energy of increasing pressure is generated, and in the second instance, it is radiated. When radiated energy leaves any charging body, whether it be a sun, planet, bar of steel, solenoid or storage battery, it is a discharge in respect to the body from which it has been ejected. When that radiated energy changes its mutually repellent lines of divergence at an equilibrium point between the ejecting mass which discharged it to mutually attractive, converging lines which head toward the gravitational center of the next mass, is it not plain to see that the negative discharging force of radiation becomes a positive charging force of gravitation?

Is it not apparent that the energy stepped down from the sun, for example, which we call radiant energy, is converted into generative energy as it steps up its voltage pressure in our planet? Is it not perfectly plain that the direction of a step down transformation of energy is exactly the opposite direction of that taken by a step up transformer?

Is it not evident that a charging force moves in the opposite direction from a discharging force? If these premises are well founded, is it not impossible for a charging force to be attracted by a discharging force? How then did the error creep into our consciousness? Is it not the same reasoning that once convinced men that the earth was flat because they said "I see it with my own eyes?"

For an illustration of the practical workings of the solenoid principle, let us imagine a room of one thousand cubic feet. Within that room is a certain quantum of potential energy expressed as air pressure which we will define as X quantity. In its expanded state of uniform, equal pressure, this energy will do no work. If, however, a tank of one cubic foot were placed at the center of the room and all of the air content of the room were pumped into that tank, the energy so pumped in would be equivalent to stepped up electrical energy while on the inward Journey. It would also be equivalent to a charging or generating force. It would be a positive force, for all lines of force are mutually attracting toward a common center of greater density. It would also perform work while being compressed. If this energy were released through a small tube, it would perform work for a long time, but if discharged through a large tube, it would perform the same amount of work in a short time. It would then be a negative, or discharging force, for all lines are mutually repelling toward an expanded area of lower density. The X quantum of energy would still remain the same; the only difference would be that it had been divided into two pressures, a low pressure and a high pressure which is equivalent to a low potential and a high potential, or to vacuity and density.

This is all that Nature does to perform work, whether to create a storm or a solar system. Whenever one equilibrium pressure is divided into two opposing pressures, each one of the two tries to destroy the other in order that they may each return to the stability of an equilibrium. It is this universal desire of all force to return to its potential state of stability in equilibrium which performs all of the work of the universe. This is a universal law applicable to everything in Nature. If a man, for example, is made comfortable and thoroughly at ease, he is deprived of the incentive for work. Make him uncomfortable or place him in danger and he becomes intensively active until his stability is recovered.

Our solar system is composed of a series of generated solids of compressed energy all of which are in their comfortable and appropriate potential positions of the moment, but are constantly changing to the proper potential positions of the next moment.

A condition or position of stability is impossible to maintain in this universe of changing potential between any two masses. Constant readjustment of potential demands constant readjustment of position. Let us assume that the tank of air above described was surrounded by a circle of others and connected by tubes of lessening diameter. The discharge of the high pressure tank would charge the next one and discharge into the succeeding one, and so on until the entire X quantity of energy was all short circuited into an equilibrium. During this process of continuing motion, wheels could be made to turn between the tanks. When the energy became equalized, motion and work would both cease.

In this same manner, the sun steps down its own energy along its equatorial belt by radioactive discharge and steps it up for Mercury by generoactive charge just as the human voice is stepped down into disappearance and condensed again by radio or the cliff side. Mercury's negative discharge becomes positive charge for Venus. And so on, all down the pressure gradient of the system down to Neptune, and beyond, the energy of the high pressure vortex of generated energy in the sun is utilized to the last volt in repetitive sequences as it escapes from the sun's exhaust at its hot equator and returns as regenerated energy to its relatively cold poles, and to the cold poles of all the planets.

Nature does not waste one volt of pressure in an entire solar system, or in a Milky Way, or in ten thousand galaxies. All of it is regenerated for re-radiation forever and forever.<sup>*20</sup>

Ascension

Feeling a tad bit 'OUT OF SORTS' lately? Fret not, everyone else is too. Could this be WHY???:-)

"Ascension is the raising of our personal energy frequency. It occurs when we bring our layers of "light" from our Spiritual Body or Multidimensional God Self down into our physical form. As we integrate more of our true spiritual essence into our being we expand our auric field via our chakra system and activate our dormant strands of DNA. This allows us to move into higher states of consciousness accessing a new reality or dimension within ourselves.

Please understand when I say 'higher level of consciousness' I do not mean "better".

Greater consciousness is "more" consciousness and each one of us has the exact same potential to activate and tap into our higher states of consciousness. Greater consciousness means greater connection to our God Selves and a deeper understanding of the universe. Ascension and the raising of our vibration is a personal spiritual choice. Each of us has the very same potential to ascend; it is a matter of our own free will choice and the intention to allow ourselves to do so. All souls eventually move into greater states of consciousness.

As we raise our vibrations and ascend into higher levels of consciousness we may experience some discomfort emotionally, mentally and physically. We are transforming our dense lower vibrating carbon based cells into higher vibrating crystalline "light filled" cells. In other words, we are going through an alchemical process of body, mind and spirit. As we ascend, we transcend karma. Everything that is ready to be released will be brought up for review bringing about a change in our life experience.

Old relationships, activities, jobs, belief systems, place of residence etc... may no longer serve your highest good.

This is a positive experience and will result in tremendous personal growth even though it may be uncomfortable and chaotic at times. In order to ascend we must open ourselves up to change and step into a place of surrender and allowance. All discomfort is temporary! Eventually, everyone choosing to ascend into the higher states of consciousness will move into a state of health, harmony, joy, peace, spiritual abundance, full consciousness and unity consciousness.

Emotional Discomfort

1. Loss of identity. Feel like you are loosing yourself. Not feeling like you "fit in" anymore.
2. Dark Night of the Soul: As the old you dies (death of the ego) and you make room for the birth of the new you (Spiritual Self) you may experience an increase of chaos in your life. Your old ways just aren't working for you anymore! The sooner you can let go of the old and allow yourself to step into a new way of thinking and being the smoother your life will move. Depression, Grief, Sadness, Loss of Identity and Confusion are very common during the Dark Night of the Soul.
3. Your emotional body may experience upheaval during the cleansing process. One week you may experience Joy, Bliss and Elation and the next week you may experience Anger, Fear and Confusion. You may feel like something is wrong with you. This is part of the clearing process so please do not judge yourself.
4. Sudden extreme sensitivity to loud and crowded environments. While our energy bodies rapidly shift we will desire more time alone in our sacred space. Our connection to the Earth and nature deepens and we begin to experience the unification and universal flow of all living things.

5. Heightened desire to surround yourself around “like-minded” people and healthy relationships. You simply cannot tolerate low vibrational environments or toxic relationships any longer.
6. Irritability and Anxiety! Acceleration of time and not feeling like you can accomplish everything that needs to be done.
7. Feelings of despair and overwhelm. Our physical, emotional, mental and spiritual bodies are integrating higher vibrational energies from our God self. As we face God, we face ourselves! Things that need to be healed are being brought up to the surface for us to transcend. Previous behaviors and actions or karma are being balanced at an accelerated rate. Our God self loves us unconditionally, but our misqualified energy must be brought into balance... it cannot be taken with us! Pulsating rhythms of our past are vibrating away and it affects how we feel.
8. Clumsiness, feeling out of sorts. Distracted.
9. Increase in psychic development and awareness. The ability to see beyond the veils may be emotionally disturbing if you are not accustomed to the truth of reality. These are natural abilities that will be returning to all of us who are choosing to awaken and expand our consciousness. Be accepting of this process and do not resist. Work through your fears. We have earned the return of our spiritual gifts, welcome them! It may help you to find a group where you can talk about these experiences without anyone placing judgment on them. Some people have extreme fear of psychic abilities and some feel these abilities should never be discussed and should remain a secret. We are in the midst of planetary ascension! The truth is being revealed and we are returning to our divine inheritance and potential! It is time to share these experiences so we can reduce the trauma, shock and fear that occurs when people begin to experience the truth of reality.

Mental Discomfort

1. Our mind / ego / intellect will struggle to come to terms with the true nature of reality. It will try to cling to the old and not want to shift or change. Your mind may begin to panic as you experience the disintegration of your old reality. Blame, Anger, Fear and Frustration are very common.
2. Difficulty holding a clear thought... foggy thinking. Memory loss.
3. Communication difficulties. People do not seem to hear or understand you.
4. Mentally in high gear. Burn Out.
5. Obsessive need to understand what is happening.
6. Zoning out for long periods of time, not wanting to do anything.

Physical Discomfort

1. Intense electrical energy and heat that runs through the body. The body is being rewired to carry higher frequencies. Kundalini experiences.
2. Vertigo, Dizziness and Spaciness. A lot is going on in our brains! The right and left sides of the brain, our masculine and feminine energies, are being balanced and the pineal, pituitary and hypothalamus glands are being activated. We are also having a difficult time staying grounded because of the higher energies from the galactic center and our God self entering through the crown chakra. Daily “grounding” exercises and expanding and growing energetic “roots” out of our root chakra into the Earth will be helpful.
3. Intense Detoxification. As your body clears out toxins you may experience rashes, heat, itchiness, tingling or crawling sensations on the skin. The skin is our biggest elimination organ.

4. Detoxification may also produce pain in the hips, knees, muscles and joints and gastrointestinal disturbances as the body tries to rapidly release everything that is keeping it from reaching the higher vibrations.
5. High-pitched sounds and buzzing in the ear. An indication that you are raising your vibration and accessing higher dimensional aspects of yourself.
6. Hyper nervous system, panic attacks or anxiety attacks.
7. Heart palpitations. Our heart chakra is opening, activating and expanding. It must pump faster to accommodate the new energies coming from the galactic center and our God selves. As the heart expands you may also experience breathlessness or difficulties taking a deep breath.
8. Back Pain. Our spine is being altered to handle higher frequencies and prepare for the raising of the kundalini energy.
9. Cranial pressure, headaches, neck and shoulder pain. Migraines.
10. Bodily aches and pains. Our old cellular structure is dissolving giving birth to our crystalline structure. The body is being prepared to hold more light and a higher vibration. As we ascend, energy can get stuck in the etheric body creating blocks. Energy work, exercise, massage and hot Epsom salt baths will help. Also sun bathing helps burn off mucous and etheric blocks that naturally collect as our entire system transmutes all of its density into light.
11. Water retention. Our crystalline body requires more sodium chloride to ascend. Also our lymphatic system is being affected due to the rapid detoxification that is occurring. Drink additional water and exercise!
12. Disruptive sleep patterns.
13. Extreme Fatigue. Our physical and energetic bodies are growing and expanding. This requires an enormous amount of energy.
14. Flu-like symptoms.
15. Increased appetite and weight gain is common because it requires a tremendous amount of energy to transform our system. Also, the larger light body we have the larger our physical body may become in attempts to help us stay grounded.”<sup>23</sup>

Fear is the Anti-Christ

Christ is love, so the anti-christ must be fear. There are many who await the arrival of the anti-christ, and some who look for the anti-christ. However, the anti-christ is here, and the anti-christ has been here for a very long time. The anti-christ, or fear has dominated, and held dominion over the earth without our knowledge or awareness, often disguising itself as love. Much fear is disguised as love. Fear also disguises itself as concern and good intentions, whatever is necessary for fear to take control, and in so doing remove free will.

Many of our love based values, are really fear based values disguised as love. Fear has overtaken our politics and our religion, but this is changing and will continue to change. If we look around us, we will see fear, and we will see through the disguise of fear. When we look around us, we will also see love, and we will see that the time of love has arrived. A time of acceptance without judgement.

On the surface, which is in reality the only realm in which fear does exist, fear can at times appear to be much stronger than love, but this an illusion. When the surface of our existence is removed, fear itself is removed, and all that remains is love. Fear is like an iceberg floating on the ocean of existence, and it is only that part of the iceberg which is on the surface, or visible, that contains fear. The bulk of the iceberg, which exists below the surface of the ocean, which exists within the body of the ocean, is love.

The end of the world is upon us, but it is the end of the fear based existence, and the beginning of a love based existence. The artificial nature of the fear based existence which thrives upon and compounds artificial fulfillment, is fighting for its very existence. Whenever the vibration of love has increased within the earth plane, the fear vibration has fought a rear guard action and escalated fear in one part of the world or another, through war, tension, health issues, economic down turns, drug use, or crime and violence. Fear is all around us wherever we look, and whenever we look upon the surface of our existence.

However, if we choose to look beyond the surface, if we choose to see The Truth Of Reality, we will see love everywhere that we look. Our collective choice is to exist within a love based environment, our collective choice is to release the fear based environment from our grasp. Fear is struggling to retain control, but fear will fail. The choice has been made, and our path to love is irreversible.

Fear Destroys Lives

Fear at all levels does destroy lives. Whenever we allow fear to govern our actions, fear will remove our ability to live in a love based existence. Fear is self perpetuating, and if we respond to fear with more fear, we have perpetuated fear, and allowed fear to take control. We must respond to fear with love, because there is no other way to defeat fear. In fact we cannot defeat fear, but we can remove power from fear by not feeding fear, by not accepting fear. Unless fear is sustained, fear cannot survive, and this is how we will transform the earth plane to a love based environment, by removing fear and responding with love.

We will soon reach the point where we have experienced more than enough fear. We will decide that enough is enough, and we will simply refuse to accept fear. It is in this way that fear will consume itself.

There are an ever growing number of people who are saying 'enough' to fear. The earth plane will become a love based environment, it is only a matter of time.

The fear of the earth plane has diminished, but in general fear remains. Whilst ever fear remains, there will be those who manipulate fear and use fear as a means to control, or more accurately maintain control.

Love Is Rising From The Ashes Of Fear

Fear is nearing the end of its time, and when this occurs the anti-christ will be cast aside. The time of love has arrived and exists together with fear in our environment. As fear begins to wither and die, so love will take hold and grow, to in time wrest dominion of the earth away from fear. The anti-christ is beginning to die and Christ is rising from the ashes. Love has begun to consume fear, and love will continue to consume fear, until the last remnants of fear have been consumed. The earth plane which has been a fear based environment, will become a love based environment.

As we look around us, on occasions it will seem that fear has fought back, and that fear has regained ground, but this is an illusion. No opportunity to move a love based existence, even within our own individual environment is lost. If an opportunity to move from fear to love is missed, another opportunity will be provided.

The change from a fear based existence to a love based existence will occur individually, not all at once. One individual at a time, one step at a time. As each of us embrace love and discard fear, so love will increase. The journey from a fear based existence, to a love based existence will continue one step at a time, one individual at a time until the journey is complete.

Removing fears and insecurities is the only way to stop blocking the love and the light within us. The more fears and insecurities which we remove, the more love and light which we allow to shine through.

Wherever we look we can see that it is easy to change the world from a fear based world, to a love based world. We need only to choose to do so. We need only make our choices in all things, including those who represent and serve our communities based on love, instead of fears and insecurities.

The key to living in a love based society is for each of us to choose to live a love based existence. It is that simple. As more of us choose a love based existence, we will become the majority, and then the basis of society. It is that simple. No one person will, or can change society. This has been demonstrated. Each of us must make our own choice to live in the love and through this, society will alter from fear based to love based. A love based earth plane will occur because we are seeking a love based earth plane existence, however the choice for each of us is individual.

The change from a fear based environment to a love based environment will be brought about by the choice of us on the earth plane. The change from a fear based environment to a love based environment will not and cannot be brought about by any other way. Unless the change from a fear based environment to a love based environment is by choice, it is not real.

When the world moves from a fear based environment, to a love based environment, it will not do so at the expense of experience. The environment needed for experience will remain, because experience is the purpose of the earth plane.

When we accept fear, we live a fear based existence and the beauty drains out of our world. When our fear based environment becomes a love based environment the beauty of the earth plane will become more beautiful, the joy of the earth plane will become more joyful, and the love of the earth plane will encompass everything. This is how the earth plane was once experienced, and this is how the earth plane will be experienced again.

As we become increasingly aware that love is the true nature of everything, this love will feed upon itself, and grow as love consumes the fear of the earth plane.

The negativity of our fear based existence, has begun to lift. We are both the last generation of the fear based existence, and the first generation of the love based existence.

To Fight Fear

It is very difficult to see love, when we are blinded by fear.

We should not underestimate fear, and what fear can do. Fear can twist itself in whatever way is necessary for fear to survive. Fear can quickly take hold without any real basis for its existence. If we accept fear, we give fear a basis for existence, we make fear real, and we give fear life.

Fear often manifests itself in this way. Fear strikes at us even though fear has no substance. If fear is ignored, fear goes away. However, if fear is accepted by either fighting the fear, or embracing the fear, fear is given substance, and fear will then feed on itself. Fear is an illusion, but once given life fear becomes real.

Fear is the common enemy of us all. Fear can manifest itself at a personal level, or fear can manifest itself at a cultural level. In fact, it is fear which causes and feeds upon cultural differences. If we all accept fear as the common barrier to a love based existence, we have taken a step towards creating that love based existence.

Fear is an illusion and we can only defeat fear if we treat fear as an illusion. The only way to treat fear as an illusion is to ignore the illusion, and to act as if the illusion does not exist.

Fear cannot be fought because the very act of attempting to fight fear, breeds more fear, and allows fear to grow. Whilst ever we view the concept of good and evil as reality, and whilst ever we desire to see good triumph over evil, however honorable our intentions, we will fail. The only way to engage fear is on fear's terms, because the act of engaging fear is in itself, fears terms. To survive, fear needs to either be embraced or engaged, and either way we are acknowledging the reality of fear's existence. As soon as we acknowledge the reality of fear's existence, we have given fear reality, and in so doing we allow ourselves to exist within fear.

We have to neither hide from our fears, nor confront our fears. The only way to move passed fear into love is to ignore the existence of fear. We need to accept that fear is an illusion, and when we accept that fear is an illusion, fear loses its reality. However, we cannot force ourselves to accept that fear is an illusion. If we force ourselves to accept that fear is an illusion, we are acknowledging the existence of fear, and this in itself is enough to give fear life.

The only way to remove fear from our existence, is to discontinue to give life to fear, though living as though fear did not exist. If we live as though fear did not exist, fear will cease to exist.

Seeing through and moving beyond the illusion of fear, is something which we must do for ourselves, there is no other way.

We decide not to accept fear, not by ignoring fear, but by living as though fear does not exist. Fear does not exist beyond the earth plane.

Fear does not exist, fear is an illusion. When we refuse to accept fear, the illusion which is fear is shattered.

Fear looks and feels real, and fear seems to be real. We cannot not prove that fear is not real. However, fear is artificial, and if we ignore fear, and go about our business as if fear does not exist, fear will simply disappear in time.

How Society Will Change

Society will change from a fear based society to a love based society, the only way that society can change, through changing the fabric of society from fear based to love based. The fabric of society will not change through political means, or through a crusade by true believers. If this did occur it would not change the fabric of society, all that would effectively change is the agenda of the fear based society.

The change which will occur, will come from within, from within each soul. As more and more of us change the basis of our individual existence from fear based to love based, the fabric of society will change accordingly. The fabric of society is a product and a reflection, of those within the society. If our existence is fear based, then society is fear based.

The change from a fear based to a love based society will only occur through the change of environment within the majority, often referred to as the silent majority. The average, everyday person who does not have a political agenda, and does not attempt, often successfully, to impose the will of a minority on the majority.

It will not be the will of minorities, however well intentioned, which will change the fabric of society. It is the will of the majority choosing to replace a fear based environment, with a love based environment which will allow the change to occur.

It is not a change that will be imposed, it is a change which will occur. Many who thrive within a fear based environment will attempt to perpetuate the fear based environment, and for a time they will succeed.

However, the change will occur as we come Full Circle, and this process which has now begun cannot be reversed. The result will be a love based society. The change has begun and the change will continue as the majority seek the truth of existence, and allow the change from a fear based existence, to a love based existence to occur.

All societies are created by the collective choice of those within the society. When the collective choice ceases, there is no means to maintain the society, and the society therefore ceases. It is by this principle that the fear based society will end, and the love based society will be chosen to replace the fear based society.

The best way to release stress, or to prevent ourselves from accumulating unresolved experience, is through love. When we consider our own lifetimes, we see that whenever we exist within an environment of love, we do not feel the stress regardless of what occurs around us. When we are filled with love, there is no room to retain any other experience. If we look to our own lifetimes we can see within our lifetimes how this principle, if applied to all souls consistently will create a love based environment, for us to exist within. This is exactly how it will happen. This is exactly how the fear based society will become a love based society.

Those who accept that a love based society is possible, will exist within a love based society, and we will reach a point where all souls share a love based existence. The fear based existence will end. <sup>*24</sup>

Common Healing Symptoms

Symptom	Description
Aching joints	Body adjusting to heightened frequency of its nervous system, inexperienced pose (eg. lotus position).
Aching muscles	'Post-trapped energy release', caused after spasms of energy is freed in the body from blockages.

Body	Operates automatically, and independent of mind's controlling/resisting influence is 'allowed' to heal naturally.
Clarity	'Knowing' without thoughts, diminishing fog in the mind, enlightened consciousness, illuminating periods.
Coincidences	Becomes synchronicity. There are no coincidences in God's universe. All originates from one source.
Chimes	Not from iPhone, but from a close to ear, invisible/unidentifiable source, is a positive sign from 'heaven'.
Crying	From deep within, as past hurts, mistakes, and emotional sympathies are evoked, acknowledged, and released.
Detachment	From negative influences of past life/friends/etc, eventually becomes non-attachment to 'worldly life'.
Diarrhea	Frequent symptom, when 'a positive thing is done for another person', who then releases its negative opposite.
Discipline	By conservative need for Self-control and Self-discipline, as positive structure to enable spiritual growth.

Exhaustion	Sleeping in, frequent naps, a body's greater need to rest from negative to positive changes and releases.
Fear	Empowers the modern world. Depriving its hunger to feed on a person's energy, transforms ego into Self-power.
Fetal	Prior to 'passing through' the 'eye of a needle', a tremendous loss of power/ego is experienced in fetal position.
Flow	Sensation of Ki energy flowing through the body, giving up resistance, from head through the knees to the feet.

Freedom	From the past, positionalities, competition, resistance, negative 'attacks', desires, politics, argument, etc.

Symptom	Description
Insights	"A-ha!" moments, realizations, signs/clues toward deeper exploration/understanding, awakening to truth.
Isolation	Without solitude, healing negative past/detaching from external 'worldly things' becomes near impossible.

Presence	Of context, of higher Self, of consciousness, of angels, of the underlying awareness of ALL that IS, of God.
Remembrance	Memories of past lives, repressed experiences, latent talents or abilities, positive belief in one's Self.
Simplification	"Truth is simple, complexity is not." By simplifying one's life, mind loses power, all becomes easier.
Silent prayer	At first, to quiet the mind, sit/kneel in silence. Later with practice, becomes habitual, instant prayer.
