The Great Barrier

Dr. Hawkins points out that the two greatest spiritual growth barriers seem to be at level 200 and 500. Two hundred, the level of courage, represents a profound shift from destructive and harmful behavior to life-promoting and integrous lifestyles; everything below 200 makes one go weak using kinesiology. Currently, approximately 78% of the world's population is below this significant level. The destructive capacity of this majority would annihilate mankind without the counterbalancing effect of the 22% above 200. Because the scale of consciousness is logarithmic, each incremental point represents a giant leap in power. As such, one person calibrated at 600 counterbalances the negativity of 10 million people below 200.

The second great barrier is level 500—Love. Love in this context is a way of being in the world—not an emotionality as most of us perceive it. According to Dr. Hawkins, the reason the level of love is so difficult to achieve is because our ego is so rooted in the physical domain as opposed to the spiritual domain, which emerges at 500. The 400s represent the level of reason, guided by the linear, mechanistic world of form (our modern society that includes advancements in medicine, science, government, etc). Interestingly, the top echelon of intellectual genius, including Einstein, Freud, Newton, Aristotle, etc., all calibrated around 499. The 500s represent a very difficult hurdle as only four percent of the world's population calibrates in the 500s. This level denotes a shift from the linear, provable domain (classic physics or Newtonian physics) to the nonlinear, formless, spiritual realm.

It is important to understand that no level is better or worse than another. There are no opposites. The Map of the Levels of Consciousness represents a gradation of consciousness—degrees of the experience of Reality, the existence of God, and the level of lovingness that is present. The 500s (love) are not "better" than the 400s (reason); they simply represent another gradation (and a higher level of truth) on an infinitely growing scale.

A person's LOC remains rather steady through the lifetime. Emotions come and go like the passing wind, but a person's calibratable LOC is governed by specific energy fields in the nonlinear domain which generally doesn't waver. Over the course of a lifetime, the average person's LOC will change approximately five points (this is not a statistical derivation, but an average discovered through Dr. Hawkins' kinesiologic research). However, it is possible for an individual (such as a spiritual aspirant) to have their LOC jump (or drop) hundreds of points in a single lifetime. *1

Thoughts on Ideas

An idea is. That's all, it simply is.

Formless, lightweight, a tiny cloud one can reach out and touch or ignore in passing. Grab it, and it can be fluffed and shaped like a pillow, turned into form, by nurturing it into physical existence.

An idea may emerge from a thought, impulse, feeling, intuition, or inspired by divine intervention.

Such ideas may not convey absolute specifics, or power as target words defining a political issue.

Ideas for selfish gain are dangerous... Beware. As ideas come and go, unattached to any outcome.

They may even linger to attract one's attention. It's up to you, grab one. Ideas want to be explored.

Sharing allows for creativity to engage with ideas, to have these discussed, contemplated, refined, rejected, expanded, discerned, molded, accepted, embraced, discarded, validated, developed...

Ideas are the foundation of good conversation, allowing 'social interaction' to consider viewpoints.

Ideas are interpretable, which by the act of virtual creation/destruction, means that these too can be abused, as when transformed into ideological weapons by imposition, manipulation, coercion...

This author's ideas are simple, personal, pursuing truth, and offer no reward by 'hurting' anyone.

Sharing an idea, is to invite a conversation with someone, to explore new potential, and consider its possibilities—as long as there's semblance of being on a similar wavelength of consciousness.

Being supportive, by reflecting on an idea and offering constructive, positive feedback, does not mean you're giving approval to such an idea. It just means you're capable of considering an idea for its own sake, without letting your political bias and emotional judgment affect registration of it. Cruel intentions are revealed by over-critical, cynical, dividing attacks, targeting for 'points', gain.

The key to sharing ideas, is to not reject these immediately when one is proposed, regardless of how out-of-control it makes you feel, or ridiculous it may appear. But rather, to hear it out, for its own value, to ask questions and discover more about it: "Why does this idea exist?" "Where does it come from?" "What will this idea accomplish?" Or 'build on the idea', see where it wants to go.

There's no harm in considering ideas, even one from someone perceived as an enemy, they may have valuable insight to reveal. Managers consider investment proposals at a bank by hearing it out, finding out more about it and evaluating it, before deciding/declining to risk investing in it.

An idea can be the start of a great conversation, as any good idea can stimulate your imagination and discovery of conscious growth, and a great idea can change your worldview for better and/or worse. At least, when in good company sharing terrible ideas with humor can be good for a laugh.

Ideas are this author's currency in the world. Not in the big schemes, but in little rewards in light.

All of his previous work relied on, and built upon, being creative with unexplored options in ideas.

Ideas are lubricant for enabling positive motivation to change, reach beyond the capacity of mind to intellectualize (overlooking the obvious) and inspire the visions required to carry these through.

If you 'react negatively' and immediately 'shoot down' every idea shared in honorable faith... This:

- Invalidates my reality, the 'right to exist in my truth', which is one of the core spiritual problems that negatively affects many children's development, which makes it difficult to 'come into my own being' as children eventually do, when their needs are met and in balance with their world.
- Makes anyone reluctant to share anything else with you, even the mundane existential opinions. "How I truly feel?" "What would I like to do or accomplish?" "What are my goals in life?" Etc.
- Makes one wonder "what causes reactive behavior?" and whether you would consider therapy?
- Shows you're unwilling/unable to consider potential solutions to problems that may be resolved by a simple and practical idea. Perhaps so simple it appears to be 'unimaginably unachievable'.

It appears to me, consumers consider creativity to mean acting, drawing, painting, photography... While ignoring the very act of being alive and living life as a conscious process, of a divine source.

You may buy art supplies for me to draw pictures with. Listen: Everything I do is creative inspired! Every moment, every movement, every instinct, every intention, every every... Seeks to create life.

So the answers to issues and the solutions that may come out, are to resolve real-world problems, some of which haven't been attempted for generations, ever, despite governments, corporations, and foundations spending (and wasting) trillions of other people's money 'appearing to' fix these.

I have nothing to invest in politics. It's a dead-end. Nor in collective ideas of controlling the world.

But ideas can bring positive change—when these are inspired by your very own light found within.

Rainbow Batik

I saw this wonderful project at this great site Pink and Green Mama (a favorite of mine) - as soon as I saw the project, I just had to try it out with Holly as this was right up her alley. When I showed her what we were doing, she was very excited. We started with a white cloth napkin and if she enjoyed this project we would later tackle something larger like an apron or book bag. This was just the right size for now though.

You take your Elmers Gel Glue and draw a design all over your fabric. Let is sit and dry for a couple of hours, we set ours in the sunshine. Then you paint your design with acrylic paint - rainbow colors for us. Again, let this dry for a couple of hours, we set ours in the sunshine. Once the paint is dry you will then soak your fabric in a sink of hot water for about 15 minutes and the glue will begin to dissolve. You can scrunch/rub the fabric together to encourage it to happen quicker, this will not ruin your paint job. Once the glue has fully dissolved from the fabric it will reveal the design you created, a batik. *3

Two Cows

Note: The setup for Two Cows has several interpretations, this particular version included ~Matthias Varga

SOCIALISM

You have 2 cows. You give one to your neighbour.

COMMUNISM

You have 2 cows. The State takes both and gives you some milk.

FASCISM

You have 2 cows. The State takes both and sells you some milk.

NAZISM

You have 2 cows. The State takes both and shoots you.

BUREAUCRATISM

You have 2 cows. The State takes both, shoots one, milks the other, and then throws the milk away.

TRADITIONAL CAPITALISM

You have two cows. You sell one and buy a bull. Your herd multiplies, and the economy grows. You sell them and retire on the income.

ROYAL BANK OF SCOTLAND (VENTURE) CAPITALISM

You have two cows. You sell three of them to your publicly listed company, using letters of credit opened by your brother-in-law at the bank, then execute a debt/equity swap with an associated general offer so that you get all four cows back, with a tax exemption for five cows. The milk rights of the six cows are transferred via an intermediary to a Cayman Island Company secretly owned by the majority shareholder who sells the rights to all seven cows back to your listed company. The annual report says the company owns eight cows, with an option on one more. You sell one cow to buy a new president of the United States , leaving you with nine cows. No balance sheet provided with the release. The public then buys your bull.

SURREALISM

You have two giraffes. The government requires you to take harmonica lessons.

AN AMERICAN CORPORATION

You have two cows. You sell one, and force the other to produce the milk of four cows. Later, you hire a consultant to analyse why the cow has dropped dead.

A GREEK CORPORATION

You have two cows. You borrow lots of euros to build barns, milking sheds, hay stores, feed sheds, dairies, cold stores, abattoir, cheese unit and packing sheds. You still only have two cows.

A FRENCH CORPORATION

You have two cows. You go on strike, organise a riot, and block the roads, because you want three cows.

A JAPANESE CORPORATION

You have two cows. You redesign them so they are one-tenth the size of an ordinary cow and produce twenty times the milk. You then create a clever cow cartoon image called a Cowkimona and market it worldwide.

AN ITALIAN CORPORATION

You have two cows, but you don't know where they are. You decide to have lunch.

A SWISS CORPORATION

You have 5000 cows. None of them belong to you. You charge the owners for storing them.

A CHINESE CORPORATION

You have two cows. You have 300 people milking them. You claim that you have full employment, and high bovine productivity. You arrest the newsman who reported the real situation.

AN INDIAN CORPORATION

You have two cows. You worship them.

A BRITISH CORPORATION

You have two cows. Both are mad.

AN IRAQI CORPORATION

Everyone thinks you have lots of cows. You tell them that you have none. No-one believes you, so they bomb the ** out of you and invade your country. You still have no cows, but at least you are now a Democracy.

AN AUSTRALIAN CORPORATION

You have two cows. Business seems pretty good. You close the office and go for a few beers to celebrate.

A NEW ZEALAND CORPORATION

You have two cows. The one on the left looks very attractive... *4

Ra warned of a 'controlled fascism' spreading towards the end.

Before we break into that Cayce quote, we also get a warning from Ra that there is a strong possibility of a sort of fascism spreading on Earth. This prophecy, to many people's reckoning, is well in progress right now:

Questioner: Would the coming changes as we progress into fourth-density such as changes in the physical third-density planet due to the heating effect and changes such as the ability of people to perform what we term paranormal activities act as catalyst to create a greater seeking?

Ra: I am Ra. This is partially correct. The paranormal events occurring are not designed to increase seeking but are manifestations of those whose vibratory configuration enables [them] to contact the gateway to intelligent infinity... The correct portion of your statements is the greater opportunity for service due to the many changes which will offer many challenges, difficulties, and seeming distresses within your illusion to many who then will seek to understand, if we may use this misnomer, the reason for the malfunctioning of the physical rhythms of their planet.

DW: Get that? They said SEEMING DISTRESSES. In fact all is well. Nonetheless, the Earth Changes cause many to 'seek to understand' what is going on. Let's proceed right where we left off:

Ra: Moreover, there exists probability/possibility vortices which spiral towards your bellicose actions. Many of these vortices are not of the nuclear war but of the less annihilatory but more lengthy so-called "conventional" war. This situation, if formed in your illusion, would offer many opportunities for seeking and for service.

DW: Ra is VERY under-stated on things like this. So when they say "many of these vortices," they're basically saying "this is what's going to happen unless something wild comes along to change it." By all evidence, nothing has changed it. Let's move on to see what they tell us is most likely going to happen:

Questioner: How would conventional warfare offer the opportunities for seeking and service?

Ra: I am Ra. The possibility/probabilities exist for situations in which great portions of your continent and the globe in general might be involved in the type of warfare which you might liken to guerrilla warfare.

DW: Can you say "9/11"? This prophecy has already come true, except instead of "guerrilla warfare" you just have to use another word... 'trrzm.' Let's continue:

Ra: The ideal of freedom from the so-called invading force of either the controlled fascism or the equally controlled social common ownership of all things would stimulate great quantities of contemplation upon the great polarization implicit in the contrast between freedom and control.

DW: This is what's going on right now. All this government conspiracy talk, the idea of stealing elections, illegitimate wars, invading countries for their oil... the proof is right in front of your face. We're already benefiting from the "great quantities of contemplation upon... the contrast between freedom and control." Moving on:

Ra: In this scenario which is being considered at this time/space nexus the idea of obliterating valuable sites and personnel would not be considered an useful one. Other weapons would be used which do not destroy as your n-clear arms would.

DW: The airplanes of 9/11 didn't really destroy any valuable sites or personnel like nukx would have done. It was designed for maximum shock with little actual damage to the real infrastructure. Continuing:

Ra: In this on-going struggle the light of freedom would burn within the mind/body/spirit complexes capable of such polarization.

Lacking the opportunity for overt expression of the love of freedom, the seeking for inner knowledge would take root aided by those of the Brothers and Sisters of Sorrow which remember their calling upon this sphere.

DW: So, many Wanderers/ET souls/ Brothers and Sisters of Sorrow are here at this time to teach people to love the greatest "freedom" of all... "the seeking for inner knowledge." *6

Shadow School

You're a gorgeous mystery with a wild heart and a lofty purpose. But like all of us, you also have a dark side -- a part of your psyche that snarls and bites, that's unconscious and irrational, that is motivated by ill will or twisted passions or instinctual fears.

It's your own personal portion of the world's sickness: a mess of repressed longings, enervating wounds, ignorant delusions, and unripe powers. You'd prefer to ignore it because it's unflattering or uncomfortable or very different from what you imagine yourself to be.

If you acknowledge its existence at all (many of us don't), you might call it the devil, your evil twin, your inner monster, or your personal demon. Psychologist Carl Jung referred to it as the shadow. He regarded it as the lead that the authentic alchemists of the Middle Ages sought to transmute into gold.

- + "The unconscious sends all sorts of vapors, odd beings, terrors, and deluding images up into the mind; for the human kingdom, beneath the floor of the comparatively neat little dwelling that we call our consciousness, goes down into unsuspected Aladdin caves. There not only jewels but also dangerous jinn abide: the inconvenient or resisted psychological powers that we have not thought or dared to integrate into our lives." -- Joseph Campbell, The Hero with a Thousand Faces
- + "I am superior to you only in one point," Narcissus tells Goldmund in Hermann Hesse's novel Narcissus and Goldmund. "I'm awake, whereas you are only half awake, or completely asleep sometimes. I call a man awake who knows in his conscious reason his innermost unreasonable force, drives, and weaknesses, and knows how to deal with them."
- + Astrologer Steven Forrest has a different name for the shadow: stuff. "Work on your stuff," he says, "or your stuff will work on you." He means that it will sabotage you if you're not aggressive about identifying, negotiating with, and transforming it.

- + The shadow is not inherently evil. If it is ignored or denied, it may become monstrous to compensate. Only then is it likely to "demonically possess" its owner, leading to compulsive, exaggerated, "evil" behavior.
- + "The shadow, which is in conflict with the acknowledged values, cannot be accepted as a negative part of one's own psyche and is therefore projected -- that is, it is transferred to the outside world and experienced as an outside object. It is combated, punished, and exterminated as 'the alien out there' instead of being dealt with as one's own inner problem." -- Erich Neumann, Depth Psychology and a New Ethic
- + The qualities in ourselves that we deny or dislike are often the very qualities that we most bitterly complain about in other people. So for instance, an old friend of mine named Mark had a special disgust for friends who were unavailable to him when he really needed them. But I was witness to him engaging in the same behavior three different times, disappearing from the lives of his friends just when they needed him most.
- + "Whatever is rejected from the self, appears in the world as an event," said Jung. If you disown a part of your personality, it'll materialize as an unexpected detour.

Everyone who believes in the devil is the devil.

+ A bright red cardinal had a confrontation with my picture window. For almost 45 minutes, the bird hammered its beak against the glass. With the help of my good friend and research assistant Google, I determined that the bird had probably mistaken its own reflection for a rival that it was trying to attack.

The event suggests three teachings: 1. If you feel the urge to fight others, you're probably mad about something in yourself. 2. You might want to monitor any tendency you have to get fixated on an image that is at best a distorted representation of a real thing and not the real thing itself. 3. It's best not to hurt yourself or drive yourself crazy in an effort to chase away an illusion.

- + "Nothing determines who we will become so much as those things we choose to ignore." -- Sandor McNab
- + "As is demonstrated by a wealth of historical examples, every form of fanaticism, every dogma and every type of compulsive one-sidedness is finally overthrown by precisely those elements which it has itself repressed, suppressed, or ignored." -- Erich Neumann, Depth Psychology and a New Ethic
- + Hypothesis: Those among us who have most thoroughly denied and repressed their own shadows are in the greatest danger of provoking mayhem and doing evil deeds in the real world.
- + In the Middle Ages, the Catholic Church branded cats as "ambassadors of the devil" and called for their mass extermination. The virtual disappearance of felines from Europe was an important factor in propagating the Black Death, which killed 25 million people between 1347 and 1352. The disease was spread by fleas that lived on rats, whose populations had soared in the absence of their natural predators.
- + America's former Poet Laureate Robert Pinsky addressed an assembly at my daughter's high school. He read from his translation of Dante's Inferno and took questions from students. After hearing Dante's description of the nether regions, one boy asked Pinsky what his personal version of hell was. The poet said that each of us creates our own hell. The fearful and negative interpretations of reality with which we infect our imaginations constitute curses that we cast on ourselves. They terrify and enslave us so thoroughly that most of the difficult outer circumstances we encounter are mild in comparison.

- + "If only it were all so simple! If only there were evil people somewhere insidiously committing evil deeds, and it were necessary only to separate them from the rest of us and destroy them. But the line dividing good and evil cuts through the heart of every human being. And who is willing to destroy a piece of his own heart?"
- -- Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, The Gulag Archipelago
- + In her book Zen Miracles, Brenda Shoshanna defines the shadow as the unacceptable aspects of ourselves that we dump into our unconscious minds. As we avoid looking at that hidden stuff, it festers. Meanwhile, we project it onto people we know, imagining that they possess the qualities we're repressing.

The antidote to the predicament, says Shoshanna, is to "eat our shadow" -- haul it up from out of the pit and develop a conscious connection with it. Doing so not only prevents our unacknowledged darkness from haunting our thoughts and distorting our relationships; it also liberates tremendous psychic energy...

- + "There is no generally effective technique for assimilating the shadow. It is more like diplomacy and is always an individual matter. First one has to accept and take seriously the existence of the shadow. Second, one has to become aware of its qualities and intentions. This happens through conscientious attention to moods, fantasies, and impulses. Third, a long process of negotiation is unavoidable." -- Daryl Sharp, Jung Lexicon: A Primer of Terms and Concepts; also available here.
- + "It is by going down into the abyss that you recover the treasures of life," wrote Joseph Campbell. "Where you stumble, there lies your treasure."
- + "Suffering can't be avoided," James Broughton told Jack Foley. "The way to happiness is to go into the darkness of yourself. That's the place the seed is nourished, takes its roots and grows up, and becomes ultimately the plant and the flower. You can only go upward by first going downward." -- James Broughton, as told to interviewer Jack Foley, All: A James Broughton Reader
- + Modern culture does not have a high regard for the alchemists of the Middle Ages. Most people think of them as lunatics who worked in primitive laboratories at the impossible task of turning lead into gold. What idiots, right? Science has proved beyond all doubt that you cannot transform one metal into another.

But here's the real story. While there were some clueless medieval alchemists who wasted their lives trying to convert actual lead into actual gold, the authentic alchemists were up to something else. They labored to transmute the metaphorical lead of their own psyches into metaphorical gold. Their flaws, wounds, compulsions, and ignorance were raw materials they used to create light and life and wisdom and love.

Compared to the spectacular hope of creating fantastic riches out of worthless metals, it was a lowly goal. From the perspective of most of the powerful and outwardly successful people in the world, then as now, striving to apotheosize the ugliness within us is about as unglamorous as you can get. The Beauty and Truth Lab does not share that view, however.

P.S. There are many authentic alchemists alive and hard at work in the world at this very moment. *7

"The Holy Devil"

Rasputin, described as "The Holy Devil," moved to St. Petersburg in 1906 and began to gain access to the royal family of Tsar Nicholas II.

Posing as a mystic, Rasputin was known for strange prophecies, claims of superstitious healing powers, and sexual excesses.

As the Tsar and his family came under Rasputin's spell, the monarch's credibility suffered, his authority was undermined, and public distrust spread.

At this time, Tsar Nicholas escalated his father's policy of restricting Jews and implementing a full anti-Jewish "pogrom" of cruel persecution.

More then 2 millions Jews fled, many to the United States.

It was a tragedy, which, in a way, spared them from future Russian tragedies.

World War I started in 1914.

Fighting raged from Europe to the Middle East.

The Tsar sent 3 million Russian soldiers west to fight Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Unprepared to face German heavy artillery, over 78,000 Russians were killed or wounded and over 90,000 captured at the Battle of Tannenberg, August 26-30, 1914.

Within a year, over 1.4 million Russian soldiers were killed and nearly a million captured.

Russian General Denikin described:

"The German heavy artillery swept away whole lines of trenches, and their defenders with them. We hardly replied. There was nothing with which we could reply.

Our regiments, although completely exhausted, were beating off one attack after another by bayonet ... Blood flowed unendingly, the ranks became thinner and thinner and thinner. The number of graves multiplied."

Russia's disillusionment with the Tsar grew.

This, together with severe cold weather and food shortages, allowed Vladimir Lenin's community organizers to agitate and fan unrest, leading to the Bolshevik Revolution--Red October of 1917.

Lenin distributed propaganda, incited class warfare, provoked strikes, staged bank robberies, attacked police, and ordered assassinations.

Embracing Karl Marx's socialism, Lenin forced the Tsar from power, seized control of the government, then proceeded to arrest, imprison, and execute tens of thousands of Russians in a Red Terror.

Tsar Nicholas II and his family were executed.

Because there were relatively few revolutionaries, they used terror as a tactic to coerce people to hurriedly surrender their freedoms to a totalitarian government.

Lenin wrote:

"It is necessary--secretly and urgently to prepare the terror."

To his revolutionaries in the city of Nizhny Novgorod, Lenin ordered in a telegram: "to introduce mass terror."

Lenin instructed on how to treat "kulak" farmers:

"Comrades! The kulak uprising in your five districts must be crushed without pity ...

You must make example of these people. Hang (I mean hang publicly, so that people see it) at least 100 kulaks, rich bastards, and known bloodsuckers. Publish their names. Seize all their grain.

Single out the hostages per my instructions in yesterday's telegram. Do all this so that for miles around people see it all, understand it, tremble, and tell themselves that we are killing the bloodthirsty kulaks and that we will continue to do so ... Yours, Lenin. P.S. Find tougher people."

The policy of "dekulakization" -- the killing off of millions of independent "kulak" farmers--removed those who could challenge Lenin's power.

It also had the unanticipated consequence of devastating food production, resulting in the horrendous national famine of 1921-22, where an estimated 5 million died.

Bolsheviks replaced the Christian religion with a materialistic atheism. Church property was confiscated or destroyed.

Free speech and free press were prohibited. Private property was abolished.

Centralizing power, Vladimir Lenin explained:

"The goal of socialism is communism."

In 1924, as Lenin lay dying, suffering from incessant headaches, Joseph Stalin usurped power, even circulating a fake photo doctored to have him sitting next to Lenin.

Stalin then ruled as an absolute dictator of the Soviet Union.

Franklin Roosevelt told the American Youth Congress, February 10, 1940:

"The Soviet Union ... is run by a dictatorship as absolute as any other dictatorship in the world."

Stalin's "Great Purge of 1936-38" executed an estimated 1.2 million Communist Party members, government officials, military leaders, and peasants who were accused of being disloyal.

Simply a rumor of holding politically incorrect views or associating with "enemies of the people," could result in someone losing their job, being arrested and executed, or being one of the 4.5 million sentenced to "gulag" labor camps...

Solzhenitsyn wrote in The Gulag Archipelago (1973):

"If only there were evil people somewhere insidiously committing evil deeds, and it were necessary only to separate them from the rest of us and destroy them. But the line dividing good and evil cuts through the heart of every human being. And who is willing to destroy a piece of his own heart?" ...

In 1983, Solzhenitsyn received the Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, stating:

"We can only reach with determination for the warm hand of God, which we have so rashly and self-confidently pushed away." *8
